BARRETT & FARAHANY SECURES $4.5 MILLION RESOLUTION IN RACE DISCRIMINATION CASE

Barrett & Farahany is pleased to announce the resolution of a longstanding race discrimination case that resulted in a $4.535 million consent judgment in favor of client Kenny Faulk.

Mr. Faulk filed suit against Dimerco Express USA Corp. in 2021, alleging that the company rescinded a job offer for an account executive position after learning he was black. According to court filings, Mr. Faulk alleged that the company sought to hire more white employees to attract white clients. Dimerco denied the allegations and maintained that its hiring decision was based on information uncovered during a background check.

Following a trial in 2023, a federal jury found in favor of Mr. Faulk and awarded $3 million in punitive damages, $300,000 for emotional distress, and $90,000 in lost wages. Dimerco subsequently challenged the verdict and sought a new trial. In July 2024, the court declined to overturn the jury’s decision, finding that the issues raised by the defense did not prejudice the outcome of the trial.

This outcome reflects the important role that employment discrimination laws play in protecting applicants and employees from unlawful workplace practices. Barrett & Farahany remains committed to advocating for workers who have experienced discrimination, retaliation, harassment, wrongful termination, and other violations of their workplace rights.
